

New product label design for easier installation

As part of our continuous product improvement efforts, Danfoss IXA analyzers are now equipped with an updated product label featuring a clear flow direction indicator.

Correct probe orientation is an important part of the installation process. The new visual flow direction indication provides installers and service technicians with an immediate reference on the analyzer itself, helping to ensure correct mounting.

Customer benefits

- Clear flow direction guidance
- QR code for quick access to product information on Danfoss IXA website

